Dear Families,

Math: We finished unit 1 this week and the students took the unit 1 test on Thursday. I am in the process of checking the tests and they will come home on Monday.

Unit 2 will cover Addition and Subtraction Fact concepts. We will start Unit 2 by making up and solving addition number stories as well as review simple addition facts, practice doubles facts, turn around facts and addition strategies. Students will also participate in Math centers as well.

Home Links have also started to come home this week. Students and parents can expect to see these Monday-Thursday nights. The Home Links is a homework page that correlates with our daily lesson, and should take no longer than ten minutes or so. This is one way you can see what your child is doing in class everyday.

Writer's Workshop:

Students continued to learn about the Writer's Workshop this week. Lessons focused on creating their first piece of graded writing. Next week students will continue to write personal narratives and focus on text techniques (bold print, a dedication page, sound words, etc.)

Daily 5: Next week students will learn how questioning their reading will help aid in comprehension. Students will also be introduced to the next Daily 5 component Read to Someone. Students will also participate in Language Arts centers on Friday

Word Work: Our focus next week will be long vowels. Students will be participating in many discussions and activities to practice long vowel words.

Grammar: The focus next week will be predicates found in sentences. Students will be discussing and participating in a variety of activities for practice.

Social Studies:

Students will continue to learn about their community by reading about citizenship and how rules and laws are important.

Science: While waiting for our first science kit to arrive we will continue to discuss the five senses.

Website: Just a reminder that my newsletter, homework calendar, specials schedule and other important information is on my website. You can access my page through the Polk website.
